Belleville Lake controls set up

BELLEVILLE — A boating ordinance for Belleville Lake was approved by the Van Buren Township Board last night in a meeting which ended just before the 9 p.m. curfew.

The law will prohibit water skiing within 100 feet of the Belleville and Denton Rd. bridges, and require all boats to slow to a speed which causes no wake when closer than 100 feet from the bridges.

The board formally adopted measures already in effect in all of Wayne County as a result of rioting in Detroit. These rules were first put forth in a proclamation by the Sheriff's office. They are:

- All bars will be closed until further notice.

- No liquor will be sold until further notice,

- Gas stations will be closed from 9 p.m. until 5:30 a.m.,

- No gasoline will be sold unless it is pumped into a motor vehicle,

- All public gathering places will close at 9 p.m., and,

- A 9 p.m. curfew will be in effect.

Township Supervisor Louis A. Toth said the proclamation had been approved by all the mayors and supervisors in the county at a meeting with the sheriff earlier this week.

He said the four elected constables and 12 auxiliary police in the township had been maintaining a three-car, all night patrol since the weekend.

The board voted to buy 16 crash helmets for the constables. The helmets cost $24 each.

In other action, the board approved a four-way stop at the Morton Taylor and Tyler Rds. intersection, and discussed a proposal now before the Wayne County Road Commission to abandon a portion of Martinsville Rd. in the Robert Field subdivision between Huron River Dr. and Belleville Lake.

The proposal will be presented at a public hearing in the City-County Building at 10 a.m., Aug. 7.

Sewer cleaning pact questioned

8/8/67

BELLEVILLE — City Council gave its unanimous endorsement to the recommendation of the City Planning Commission last night and appointed 29-year-old Theodore E. Hooten, Jr., to a spot on the planning group.

Hooten, of 169 N. Liberty St., in Belleville, was appointed to fill a three-year term and the lone vacancy on the board.

In other action, councilmen agreed not to sign a contract with Seaway Electric Sewer Cleaners of Southgate because, according to Mayor Royce E. Smith, the firm "has not supplied the necessary labor to do the job."

Seaway already has worked three days on the task of cleaning some 5,000 feet of sewer lines along city streets.

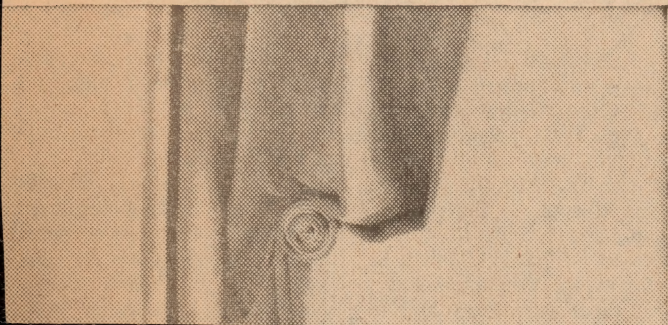

Under terms of the unsigned contract, the city is to pay the Southgate firm $250 per day, spot the manholes and supply a truck to haul sludge away.

According to Irwin W. Stech, city clerk, Seaway has asked Belleville to supply a man to help with the job. This idea was rejected by City Attorney B. Ward Smith, who explained that provision was not accounted for in the agreement.

The city was not expected to permit work to begin today unless the firm agreed to supply more help. Three cleaners have been on the job.

Councilmen also directed Smith to draw up a resolution commending the city's police force for its vigilance and long hours spent during the tense period of rioting in Detroit.

Belleville to move one fire whistle

8-22-67

BELLEVILLE City councilmen last night, in answer to pleas from firemen, agreed to move one of the city's two fire whistles from atop City Hall to the Loyal Order of the Moose Hall, 460 E. Huron River Dr.

Several firemen who live on the east side of town have claimed they have difficulty hearing the whistle when it blows.

Ellis C. Amerman, the councilmen who proposed the measure, explained that the move will distribute the two whistles more evenly in the city. The other whistle is on the water tower, on the city's western side.

Councilmen also accepted a Welsh flag brought to them by Mrs. Doris Roe, recently returned from Wales, in the British Isles.

Mrs. Roe represented the mayor of Belleville when she visited Machynlleth, Wales, Belleville's sister city under the People-to-People program. That program was inaugurated under the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower as "a voluntary effort of private citizens to advance the cause of international friendship."

Mrs. Roe presented burroughs (of Machynlleth) fathers with an American flag, given by the Belleville City Council.

A request for authorization by the council that the City Planning Commission to have its minutes published was tabled.

Attorney B. Ward Smith said to the best of his knowledge, no communities in the area had their planning commissions' meeting published. "There is no legal requirement to do so," he added.

Councilmen said that since "95 per cent" of planning commission action is reviewed by Council and hence is published along with its minutes, a separate publication is "unnecessary."

An item not listed on the agenda was a visit by Mrs. Robert A. Hay of 159 Columbia St., wife of a former Belleville mayor, who chastised the council for a penalty fee charged on her latest water bill.

On vacation for the last three weeks, Mrs. Hay said she informed clerk Irwin W. Stech that she was going on vacation and claimed he should not have penalized her for delinquent payment when he knew she was not home to receive her mail (and the water bill).

Attorney Smith reviewed the ordinance and concluded that the council could not honor her request. "Besides," added councilman Donald C. Walters, "if we adjust the bill for one, we'd have to do it for everybody."

Councilmen also agreed to look into Mrs. Hay's complaint that storm water was being funneled into sanitary sewers about town, causing them to back up during intense rains, flooding basements and causing damage to property.

Belleville ⁹⁻⁸⁻⁶⁷ HRC To Host Physician

BELLEVILLE — Dr. Roland W. Chamblee, a South Bend, Ind., physician, will be guest speaker before the Belleville Area Human Relations Council as the group opens its second year Sept. 12.

Dr. Chamblee will speak on race relations at a meeting scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, 417 Charles St. Mrs. Marguerite Grearhouse, secretary, said the group has more than 75 members and will open a drive soon to gain more.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Michigan Gov. George Romney, in one of his harshest attacks on the Johnson administration, said Thursday that the President's "credibility gap" had become a "national embarrassment."

Romney, speaking at a Republican fund raising dinner, lashed hard on Vietnam war policy, federal spending and Johnson's actions during the recent Detroit riots.

"I believe we face a credibility crisis in America today," Romney said. This crisis has been brought on in part by the administration's consistent lack of candor."

He said the administration's statements on Vietnam fiscal policy and urban problems "have too often turned out to be unrealistic, or overly optimistic, or deceptive or just plain false."

"It's no wonder that there is dissent to the Vietnam war, resistance to increased taxes, resentment to poverty programs."

The Johnson administration, he charged, had "cried wolf"

16% Hike Due:

Belleville Water Price Going up

BELLEVILLE —The price of water is going up in Belleville, by about 16 per cent after Nov. 1.

In line with increases ordered by the Detroit Water Board, the city will up its three-month minimum charge from $9 to $10.50 and its cost-per-thousand gallon rate after the first 10,000 from 30 to 35 cents.

Belleville users will be paying on the average of 50 cents more a month after Nov. 1, by action of the City Council last night.

Rates are also expected to go up in neighboring Van Buren Township, although Supervisor Louis A. Toth has delayed the recommendation for negotiations with Detroit officials.

Sewer rates will not be affected, councilmen decided, since there will be no change in the rate charged the city. Users are paying 26 cents per thousand gallons of sewage.

In a related measure, councilmen supported a resolution from the city of Inkster proposing Michigan legislators seek to place the Detroit Water System under control of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Such action would force Detroit officials to justify any and all increases in rates. "If they left the water system like it is right now," said Mayor Royce E. Smith, "the rates wouldn't have to be increased."

"They are only raising rates so they can sell more water to more people. I'm mad," he said.

Councilmen also discussed improving the fire alarm system in the city to minimize the chance of any of the volunteer firemen not being aware of a fire.

About eight or nine of the current 15-man department live far enough from the city's two fire whistles — one atop the City Hall, the other on the water tower — so that it is difficult for them to hear either whistle.

The city plans to put a siren at the Loyal Order of the Moose Hall, 460 E. Huron River Dr., but officials have not decided whether to buy a new one for that installation or take the one from the City Hall and move it to the Moose roof.

Another option is to purchase a telephone or bell system in each fireman's home which would be activated when the main siren blows.

In other action, councilmen —

—Ordered bids be taken for the replacement of about 600 feet of sewers on Liberty St. between E. Columbia St. and E. Huron River Dr. (clogged and broken by tree roots, primarily.)

—Approved the purchase on a new six-frequency police radio for the chief's office.

Belleville Firemen To Get Bells

Phone Alarm System Okayed

BELLEVILLE — Every home should have one.

At least every fireman's home should, the City Council feels.

Last night, the Belleville council approved the installation of a bell in the homes or business places of the city's 15 volunteer firemen which will ring simultaneously with the fire whistles.

Firemen had said they were unable to hear the whistles.

Eben Smith, a local contractor given the job, said the total installation cost, in the homes and at the City Hall, will be about $775, in addition to a $50 monthly charge from the Bell Telephone Co.

"I can't think of a more efficient system for a volunteer fire department," said Fire Commissioner Kenneth Palmer.

Smith said he expects to get started on the project soon. Fire Chief William R. Warner polled the firemen, he said, and found "the vast majority of the men in favor" of the bells.

Like the wailing rooftop sirens, the sounding bells will reach high and low tones.

There will no longer be any hesitation among firemen in identifying a siren as either the city's or Van Buren Township's, councilmen said.

Belleville Okays Housing Code

BELLEVILLE — The City Council, chafing from Planning Commission charges that the city's housing code was antiquated and inadequate, approved a new code last night.

In a revision of the existing code, the new document "goes into greater detail and gives broader explanations of some of the old code's (slightly ambiguous provisions," according to Clerk Irwin W. Stech.

Council's action resulted from an assertion by the Planning Commission that Belleville's housing code would not meet necessary federal requirements for issuing urban renewal grants.

The plan group also claimed the city's Workable Program was insufficient to meet federal requirements.

The Planning Commission was asked to review both documents since the city plans soon to apply for urban renewal grants.

The commission had suggested the council adopt a code similar to those of neighboring communities, but Smith questioned the legality of this and said he would "not defend any code other than that of the State of Michigan."

Belleville Planners May Quit

10-11-67
Commission Backs

Ousted Member

BELLEVILLE —The possible resignations of several members of the City Planning Commission has grown out of a weeks-old breach between the City Council and the planning group.

Commissioners are protesting action by the City Council last week creating a "vacancy" on the planning board.

Councilmen ousted Douglas Cullin after serving only three months on the commission. Cullin, acting as spokesman for the commission, criticized the council for its "antiquated housing code" and treatment of the city's urban renewal program.

In a statement issued after last month's commission meeting, Cullin charged the council with "brushing aside" its responsibilities in the development of a workable program.

Since the publication of that statement, which commissioners said had their full approval, Mayor Royce Smith has demanded a retraction and was refused.

Smith then successfully sought Cullin's removal from the commission. Smith explained Cullin "failed to take the oath of office required by the city charter."

Cullin answered that he was not told of his opportunity to do so.

He also argued he was not afforded the same opportunity given another recent commission appointee, Theodore E. Hooten, Jr., named to the Commission in August.

Hooten was notified last week he was to be sworn in. "Should not I have been given the same privilege?" Cullin asked.

Chairman Anthony Sam and Commissioners Althea (Tee) Ammerman and Theodore E. Hooten, Sr., agreed to go before the City Council next week to speak for Cullin's reinstatement.

At the close of last night's session, several commissioners said they do not feel they can continue to serve on the planning commission unless Cullin is returned.

Both Smith and Sam, questioned after the meeting, said they believed there would be some resignations if the council votes against the request.

The move would not be without precedent. Thomas J. Warner resigned his chairmanship last March when the City Council described specific boundaries of the 11½-acre urban renewal area "without reference to the commission or other citizen groups."

Chairman Sam, referring to Cullin's comments, said the term "brushed aside," referring to the Council's treatment of the Workable Program, was an "unfortunate choice of words."

Smith said, "At no time have I ever condemned the Planning Commission. I'm burned up that you said we were negligent in our duty (about updating the housing code).

We were not told that the code was insufficient to meet federal UR grant requirements because we have not yet applied to the Department of Housing and Urban Redevelopment, he said.

Smith later indicated he expects to submit the workable program to the HUD office in Chicago within a week to 10 days.

Smith laid a large share of the blame for the recent dispute on Belleville's 2-year-old zoning ordinance. "We've spent over $1,000 in publication and attorney's fees for amendments," he said.

Belleville Faces Issue Of Ouster

BELLEVILLE — The issue of a planning commissioner ousted from his post two weeks ago is expected to draw residents to City Hall tonight for the City Council's regular meeting.

At least three members of the City Planning Commission promised last week to attend and speak on behalf of Douglas Cullin.

At last week's meeting, members of the Commission pledged their support behind Cullin. The City Council declared his seat vacant after a Commission report was issued, blasting Belleville's "antiquated" housing code.

The report also suggested council members were "sloughing off" their obligations to bring housing and zoning ordinances in the city up to federal minimum requirements.

Planning Commissioners last week threatened to resign tonight if council members do not reinstate Cullin, claiming that his report was approved by the full commission.

In the meantime Cullin issued a statement asking members not to resign on his behalf. "They have a duty to the community," he said.

Smith, noting that he "cannot speak for members of the City Council," said he is opposed to Cullin's reappointment.

Belleville Council:

Move To Reinstate Planner Quashed

BELLEVILLE —The City Council last night lined up behind Mayor Royce Smith to quash a move to reinstate ousted City Planning Commissioner Douglas Cullin.

Council members voted unanimously to defeat a commission resolution asking the council to reconsider its Oct. 2 action removing Cullin from the planning group.

Cullin, with the approval of the commission last month, issued a statement charging the council with "brushing aside" its responsibilities in the development of a workable program, a preliminary step to application for federal urban renewal funds.

Council members listened to a three-man delegation, appointed by the commission last week to speak on Cullin's behalf, before voting.

Council members and the commissioners present —Chairman Anthony Sam, Mrs. William (Tee) Amerman and Mrs. Frank Beasecker — talked for several minutes before Smith decided "to give you people a final answer."

In comments outside of the meeting, Sam, Mrs. Amerman and Mrs. Beasecker said they will withhold their threatened resignations "pending another meeting."

Commission members last week indicated they would resign if the council decided against Cullin's reinstatement. However, Cullin had issued a statement asking members not to resign. "They have a duty to the community," he said.

The commissioners said they still will seek a way of returning Cullin to the board.

During the exchange prior to the vote, commissioners argued that they wanted to play a responsible role in the shaping of city policies and programs.

"Maybe we're just guilty of being over enthusiastic," Sam said. Members said they felt their role went beyond simply hearing rezoning petitions.

"If all the zoning is over, then we have no function," Sam said. A complete new zoning ordinance was adopted for the city less than three years ago.

Before the controversial statement was issued last month, planners had pressed to review the city's ordinances and actively campaigned to correct city problems as they saw them.

City Attorney B. Ward Smith said the only function of the commission was to act as an advisory body in hearing rezoning applications and land use studies.

Commissioners were still bristling, however, because Cullin, appointed in August, had not taken his oath of office.

Commissioners argued that he was not given a phone call, as was another new member, Theodore E. Hooten, advising him to come to City Hall to be sworn in.

Clerk Erwin W. Stech said Cullin "was notified by letter that he was to come down to City Hall." Cullin was tardy on the prescribed night, however, and was not sworn in.

In other action the council:

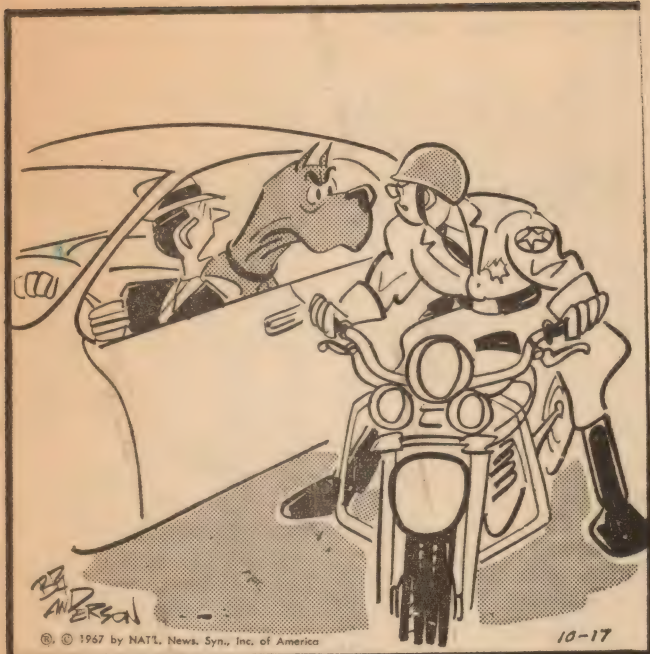

—Accepted the low bid of the Akron Construction Co., Inc., of $6,445, for replacing a sanitary sewer on Liberty St., between Huron River Dr. and E. Columbia Ave. Agreement to put in the 550 feet of pipe followed an extensive sewer cleaning project undertaken in the city last summer; —Appointed Roy L. Traskos, city building inspector, to the new position of housing code enforcement officer.

—Reappointed William Harris as plumbing and heating inspector with Councilman Ellis L. Amerman as alternate. Citizens in the audience complained that Harris does not live in the city and that Amerman is a plumbing contractor and should not represent the city as an inspector, and,

—Promised to look into a request by the city's Business and Professional Women's League for the erection of traffic safety slogan signs in various points throughout the city.

2 Churches To Offer Anti-draft Sanctuary

DETROIT (UPI)—A Roman Catholic priest prominent in anti-war protests Monday said two Detroit churches would offer sanctuary to men who refuse to serve in Vietnam.

The government will have to "raid" St. John's Episcopal Church and Christ Lutheran Church to arrest any protestors inside, the Rev. Maurice Geary said.

Father Geary made the announcement at a meeting held in Detroit as part of a nationwide protest of the draft system and the Vietnam war. After the meeting, 17 protestors returned their draft cards to the Detroit Selective Service office.

"Our civil disobedience is a form of religious obedience," Father Geary said.

He said the decision to use the churches as sanctuaries was made "reluctantly."

"We... regret the misunderstanding and disorder that may be attributed to such resistance," he said. "But the fault, we believe lies not with the resistance, but with the injustices resisted."

The protest meeting, presided over by the Rev. Archie Rich of Berea Methodist Church of suburban Highland Park, was attended by draft-age youth, representatives of six supporting organizations, attorneys and

2 Churches To Offer Anti-draft Sanctuary

DETROIT (UPI)—A Roman Catholic priest prominent in anti-war protests Monday said two Detroit churches would offer sanctuary to men who refuse to serve in Vietnam.

The government will have to "raid" St. John's Episcopal Church and Christ Lutheran Church to arrest any protestors inside, the Rev. Maurice Geary said.

Father Geary made the announcement at a meeting held in Detroit as part of a nationwide protest of the draft system and the Vietnam war. After the meeting, 17 protestors returned their draft cards to the Detroit Selective Service office.

"Our civil disobedience is a form of religious obedience," Father Geary said.

He said the decision to use the churches as sanctuaries was made "reluctantly."

"We... regret the misunderstanding and disorder that may be attributed to such resistance," he said. "But the fault

we believe lies not with the resistance, but with the injustices resisted."

The protest meeting, presided over by the Rev. Archie Rich of Berea Methodist Church of suburban Highland Park, was attended by draft-age youth, representatives of six supporting organizations, attorneys and BELLEVILLE — A systematic inspection of all housing here will begin by Jan. 1 or early spring, according to city officials, to insure compliance with the provisions of the new housing code enacted by City Council last month.

Violations will be recorded and notices of compliance issued. "If a structure is found to be sub-standard, endangering the health, safety and welfare of the occupants . . . a vacation order will be issued," said Irwin W. Stech, clerk and chief of police.

The council approved the new code, a revision of the present Ferndale housing ordinance, after Planning Commission charges that the city's housing code was old and inadequate.

Commissioners alleged that the old code would meet Federal requirements for issuing urban renewal grants. The council is expected to apply for a federal grant of near $400,000 to help finance the renewal of eight downtown lots in the near future.

Roy Traskos, building inspector, will be responsible for the administration of the code and enforcement of its ordinances.

Inspection forms are expected back from the printer within the month, Stech said.

Inspectors will call back on homes found in violation within 30 days after the initial inspection. Tickets will be issued if the violation still exists, officials said.

Progress Slow:

Belleville Sewer One Step Closer

By LOUIS CARTIER
Of The Press Staff

BELLEVILLE — Progress on the city's ambitious sanitary and storm sewer project has apparently slowed although realization of a major part of it was brought one step closer last night.

The City Council passed a resolution requesting the Wayne County Road Commission act as financial agent of the project, whose cost at one time was estimated at almost $2 million.

Richard Brender of the Wayne consulting firm of Brender and Brender, recommended application for federal funds on a more restricted project estimated at $648,000.

His figures passed off $237,000 of that amount onto the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD); the rest would come from a bond issue floated by Wayne County to be ultimately repaid by Belleville residents, through special assessments, a millage levy, or a combination of both.

County support would enable Belleville to sell its bond issue at a lower interest rate.

The new system, urged by the State Health Department and water Resources Commission, would provide separate storm and sanitary sewers on the east and west side of the city, including Liberty, Church, Wabash and Columbia Sts., and Sumpter Rd. and Huron River Dr.

With combined sewers, that handle both Storm run-off and raw sewage, heavy spring rains often back the raw sewage and water mixture back into residents' basements.

The city has applied for a $475,000 grant on a project estimated at $869,000. The difference between that project and the one estimated at $648,000 is a storm sewer along Main St., Brender said. Plans for that project may move ahead later, it was indicated.

Brender recommended the less expansive project, he said, because government funds are tight now, and he felt that the smaller application might have a better chance of approval.

Belleville is one of three western Wayne County communities reported to be eligible for such federal funds.

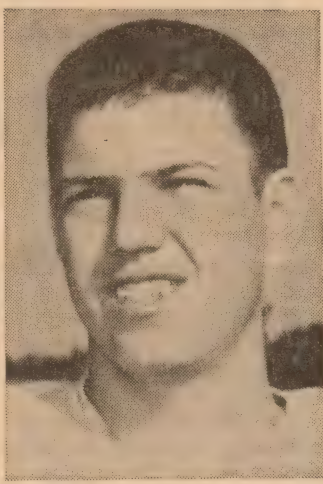

City officials said that priority consideration is often given to communities with pollution problems caused by current sewer systems.

Whenever heavy rains come, the present combined system has proved inadequate to handle the excess storm drainage and residents have flocked to council meetings to voice their disapproval.

Civil Service Regulations OK'd

BELLEVILLE — Recommended rules and regulations on the enforcement of a fledgling civil service system here won approval of the City Council this week.

Voters approved the establishment of the system last year by a 4 to 1 margin. Officials said such coverage carries the dual protection of job security for the employee and assures the community a staff of qualified personnel.

Clerk Irwin W. Stech said there are 10 city employees, including police officers

Belleville's three civil service commissioners were given outlines of possible plans to fit the city's small administration by the Michigan Municipal League last year.

The city has spent about $700, Stech said, in fees to the League and its attorney and for other items.

The system primarily lists job classification and lists grounds for dismissal, reducing the need for subjective judgments, Stech said.

No insurance program is provided for within the new system although a pension plan reportedly is being considered.

Councilmen this week also reappointed three men to the Zoning Board of Appeals, Anthony Sam, Charles Cook and Albert Richardson.

The terms of the two other appeals board members, Paul Reed and John Tator, expire next year.

Members of the Ordinance Review Committee have also been named, according to Stech.

They include: Roy L. Traskos, building inspector; William Harris, electrical inspector; William R. Warner, fire chief; Dr. Robert L. Crumley, city health inspector, and Ellis Amerman, sewer and water commissioner.

The "good roads" package as passed is essentially the same one which nearly made it through both chambers during the regular session of the Legislature before adjournment cut off consideration.

Gov. Romney included the package in his call to the Legislature for a special session which began Oct. 10, and the lawmakers have been working on the measures ever since.

Chamber Mails Out Brochures

BELLEVILLE — There is an "uncrowded, friendly atmosphere" within the city, "with plenty of room for residential and industrial development."

So says the Belleville area Chamber of Commerce to perhaps 5,000 persons, organizations and industrial firms who the chamber feels may be interested in relocating in Southeastern Michigan, particularly in Belleville.

The city's industrial development capacities, transportation outlets, utilities and schools, churches and housing are being promoted in a compact, colorful brochure just published by the C of C.

"It is not a throw-away piece," said Chamber Executive Secretary R. Merrill Bird, who wrote all the copy in the eight-page brochure introduced after several weeks of preparation and planning.

"It is being sent to those areas where it may prove useful, to industrial people and others."

The art work was done by Belleville author and photographer Franklyn Carney of 47505 N. Shore Drive.

The brochure contains a map and 12 photographs. Also included is a guide to industrial firms in the area, their products and number of employes, information on shopping, services and motels, recreation facilities and available housing.

Some sample information:

"The published master plans for both Van Buren Township and the City of Belleville outline approximately 20 per cent and 15 per cent respectively of the land area for industrial use.

"With nearly 19 miles of lake shore . . . we have several boat launching ramps, marinas, public and private swimming pools and skating ponds.

Are Area Lakes Too Polluted?

FRI NOV 17 1967

Ford, Belleville Recreation Unlikely

There appears to be a growing likelihood that Belleville and Ford Lakes will be considered too polluted for swimming when the Michigan Water Resources Commission sets water quality standards for the Huron River early next year.

Should swimming be considered a proper use of the two lakes, the standards necessary to achieve this could put as yet unknown pressures on Ypsilanti's and Ypsilanti Township's sewage treatment facilities.

These possibilities were brought out last night as an aftermath of discussions involving township supervisors, mayors and sewer and water officials at a meeting of the Huron River Watershed Council in Ann Arbor.

John Dillon of Ann Arbor, council chairman, indicated that storm run-off and municipal wastes, coupled with the watershed's increasing population density, were such that it is impractical to clean up downstream water enough for general swimming.

Some water pollution experts are contending that, even if all municipal wastes were shipped away through an interceptor sewer, storm water would weigh against swimming in the two lakes, because most of the pollution is due to run-off water anyway.

Ford Lake 'Too Dirty'?

Pollution Build-up May Rule Out Swimming

A technical advisory committee of the council currently is working on the problem of recommending future uses for different portions of the river.

This group is expected to conclude that, since the river can never be returned to the state it was before man settled on its banks, the abuses of the river should be cleaned up as much as possible and the uses set to conform with the level of pollution which would result.

The Water Resources Commission is currently developing a series of standards for rivers. Once uses are established, the standard for each use is applied and enforced by the WRC.

By next month, the advisory committee hopes to have a series of recommendations in tentative form.

Jerome K. Fulton, executive secretary of the council, said a meeting of local, state and federal water officials and consultants will be set up, hopefully in January, for the exchange of technical information on the river.

Out of this, the council will draw up a series of use suggestions to be presented to the WRC at a public hearing scheduled in Ann Arbor during the third week in February.

Any move against swimming as a use in Belleville Lake is expected to draw strong opposition from Louis Toth, Van Buren Township supervisor, and long-time critic of upstream communities for their waste treatment practices.

Since municipal sewage facilities do add wastes to the river—there is no such thing as 100 per cent treatment—Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township would have to be affected if standards for swimming were adopted for the two lakes.

"Louis Toth holds all you people accountable for not having swimming in his lake—Belleville Lake," State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-Romulus) told representatives of the upstream communities.

Rep. Mahalak said he favored the setting of standards and added that it was up to the communities along the Huron and the council representing them to help the WRC in determining the uses.

Fred H. Lunde, Ypsilanti Township supervisor, complained that his township had been forced to abandon Ford Lake as a source of water and more recently been directed by the State Health Department and WRC to adopt plans for work on its sewer system according to a specific timetable, without knowing the cost.

He also warned the mid-stream communities, including Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, that they may be forced to accept Detroit sewer and water—ending up paying for bonding on present facilities as well as new interceptor lines.

Mr. Lunde said the only way to avoid this sort of domination is for the communities to band together for greater strength. He suggested the formation of an Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor urban area group to work on utility problems, much the same as has been done for roads.

John Max, Ypsilanti director of utilities, asked: "How long will it take us to develop the watershed? We've been toying with this for 10 to 12 years and haven't stirred up much dust. I hope we can in the near future."

The average production worker, who lost more than $1,000 in pay during the strike, would have to work 682 days to catch up with those losses, based on his first year increase.

But 682 working days actually runs to more than two years of work. A worker would actually regain about $416 dollars of his lost pay in the first year. In the second year, with his average 11 cents an hour additional

Belleville Submits Downtown UR Bid

BELLEVILLE — The City of Belleville's workable program, first step along the red-tape road to completion of an $800,000 urban renewal project, was in the mail this morning.

Submission of the workable program to the federal Housing and Home Finance Administration should lead to Belleville receiving funds probably more than a year from now.

If the workable program is approved — and a decision may be months away — the city will go ahead with its request for an urban renewal grant.

City Council approval of the program last night ended a planning phase which has stretched over the past three years.

The target is less than a 2-acre parcel in the central business district of 11 lots, bounded by Roys, High and Main Sts.

The project is estimated at $779,000; 75 per cent of this amount would be funded by the federal government, leaving 25 per cent for the city, or less than $200,000.

But the city does not expect to have to pay out cash, according to Mayor Royce E. Smith. It has to do with another federal grant request, for a storm sewer project, he said.

"The government says we can take the money we have applied to community development and write that off against our share of the urban project," the mayor said.

Belleville plans to apply for a storm sewer project estimated at $648,000. The city's share would be about $400,000 of that.

If that request is approved, then the city will not be billed for the urban renewal project, Smith said.

In an effort to bring the workable program, and hence the forthcoming urban renewal application, up to federal certification standards, the council in recent meetings has taken several formal actions:

A new housing code was adopted and an ordinance review committee appointed; authorization was given for a systematic inspection of all housing to begin (delayed while proper report forms are being printed).

Reviews have been ordered (for completion by the end of 1968) of the city's land use, major thoroughfare and community facilities plans, the zoning ordinance, subdivision regulations and public improvements program.

New appointments have been made to the Citizens' Advisory Committee and to several inspector positions. Last night, the council concurred with a Planning Commission resolution that it review the master plan, zoning ordinance, subdivision regulations and a new state plotting act.

Clown, Magic Show To Replace Cartoons

BELLEVILLE — A plump clown and a magician will replace the traditional Christmas all-cartoon show at a downtown theater this year for Van Buren Township and Belleville youngsters.

The Belleville Jaycees have announced plans for a 3-hour Christmas party Dec. 16 in Belleville High School.

About 1,000 children, from pre-school age "until they get too embarrassed to come", are expected, said George W. Grubbe, Belleville Jaycees president.

Besides the clown and magician, Santa Claus will be on hand and cartoons will be shown. Candy will also be distributed, Grubbe said.

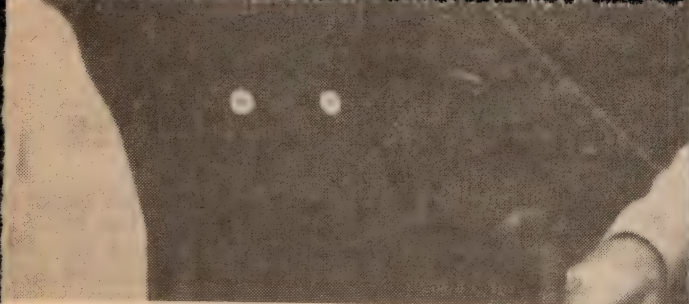

Parents may drop off their children at the high school at noon and pick them up at 3 p.m. Jaycees will chaperone.

The Jaycees recently sent a 20-pound package including paperback books, toothpaste, razor blades and the like to each of 26 servicemen from the city and Van Buren Township whose names were turned in.

The gift will arrive in time for Christmas, Grubbe said. It took the Jaycees two months to compile the list of names after residents were asked to submit names of friends and relatives overseas. Postage cost $86.

This is the second year the Jaycees have undertaken such a project.

10% of Belleville Housing 'Deficient'

BELLEVILLE — Ten per cent of the total number of housing units in Belleville has been classified as "substandard or deficient units."

The statistic was brought out this week in Belleville's workable program, a comprehensive outline of the community that must regularly be updated before urban renewal funds can be awarded.

Of the city's 639 housing units, the Detroit firm of Parkins, Rogers and Associates found three to be dilapidated and 51 "deteriorating."

It found nine units lacking some or all plumbing facilities.

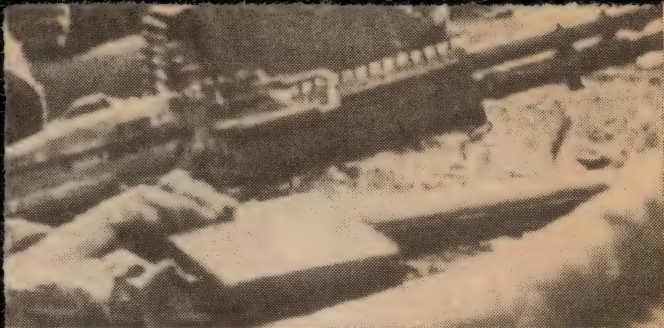

The Parkins firm found, on the other hand, that if any relocation becomes necessary, the city has the available housing to accommodate those affected persons.

This includes nine units for rental or sales in the low income bracket (under $5,000 annually), 22 in the middle income group ($5,000-$12,000), and 23 in the high income bracket (over $12,000).

Mayor Royce E. Smith, acting as "project director," said further that "no minority groups live in Belleville," a point of information asked on Department of Housing and Urban Development forms.

The City Council approved payment of $1,500 to the Detroit consulting firm for its work in bringing the workable program up to certification standards.

The Council this week also reappointed Francis S. Gunia to the Board of Canvassers and approved the appointment of W. Harold Roberts to that group.

Water Protest Slated

Toth and Smith To Participate

BELLEVILLE — Van Buren Township Supervisor Louis A. Toth and Belleville Mayor Royce E. Smith are expected to be among 30 community representatives who will protest water rates Monday before a committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors.

The hearing before the sewage disposal and water supply committee is slated in the City-County Building to permit suburban representatives to ask questions about the service they get from the Detroit Water Board.

All Western Wayne County communities buy water from Detroit which hiked its rates by 11 per cent Nov. 1.

Both Smith and Toth have criticized the rate raise.

Toth also has accused the Detroit Water System general manager, Gerald J. Remus, of attempting to delay approval of Van Buren's sewer and water bond issue because of Toth's criticisms of Remus.

Dearborn Heights and Taylor have led a revived attempt to have the Detroit Water System placed under control of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

B. Ward Smith, attorney for Belleville, explained that under current state laws, such a step could not legally be taken.

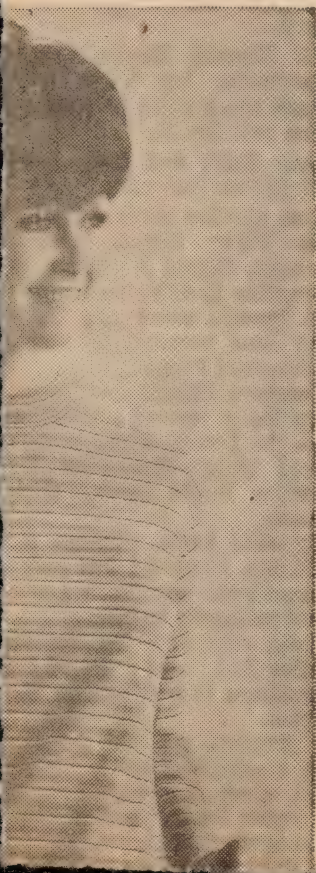

Some out-county leaders, including Toth, have proposed the Legislature take a look at the dispute.

Arguments are that the Detroit system does not justify its wage hikes, as it would have to do under Public Service Commission regulations.

MON NOV 27 1967

BELLEVILLE — State Police Trooper John M. O'Brien said he and his partner had stopped the car after seeing the driver make a right turn from Belleville Rd. onto Ecorse Rd. (M-17) without signaling.

Eddie L. Ballard, 22, of Inkster was held on three counts—no operator's license on person improper license plates and failure to transfer the motor vehicle title.

His wife Mildred 20 was cited for obstructing an officer in the discharge of his duty.

They were talking to Ballard in their cruiser O'Brien said when Mrs. Ballard asked to get in. She was allowed to but when they told her her husband was going to jail she refused to leave the cruiser O'Brien said.

O'Brien said he warned the woman several times that she would have to get out and offered to take her to a nearby telephone to have someone pick her up. She refused.

Both were arraigned before Wayne Municipal Judge John Seiler. Mrs. Ballard demanded a preliminary examination while her husband pleaded guilty to all three charges against him.

They were freed under bonds of $500 and $75 respectively and are to appear Wednesday before Canton Township Justice of the Peace Alton Shirley.

Tombstones Tipped Over

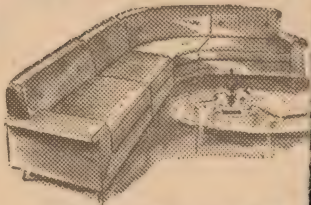

BELLEVILLE — State Police said vandals tipped over 40 to 50 tombstones in the Pleasant View Cemetery northwest of here, breaking about half of them.

Alvin E. Rumberger of 91 Oakwood Ave. reported the damage yesterday, noting that it occurred sometime within the last month.

The cemetery is located off the I-94 Freeway south service drive, and east of Denton Rd. in Van Buren Township.

Belleville Lake Level Will Drop

BELLEVILLE — If you've got any work that needs to be done on your dock on Belleville Lake, a good time to do it will be next month.

The Detroit Edison Co., which owns that body of water also known as Edison Lake, announced yesterday it will lower the level by 4 feet beginning Friday.

The measure is for flood control, after heavy snows and early spring rains.

That extra 4 feet is ideal for laying some concrete or cleaning pilings or working around the shore, Van Buren township officials feel.

Last year when Edison took a similar step, it failed to notify area municipalities. This year those officials hope not too many people will ask them "Who's draining the lake?"

ave found they are really quick to catch up. After two to three years they should be up with the others."

But it is important, that the dyslectic be detected at an early age. If a child reaches the sixth grade without special attention, the chance of rehabilitation, except with intensive private tutoring, is about eight per cent. In the first grade the odds in favor of recovery are 80 to 85 per cent.

Mrs. Janet Rule, an authority on the problem, who taught the summer workshop, prefers to refer to dyslectics as specific language disability children.

"These are the children who on the surface appear to be the developmental lag children. But the difference between a developmental lag child and a specific language disability child is that a child who has a specific language disability continues to reverse letters and invert them or omit or insert them long after the normal child has ceased to do this," she said.

"These are the children who are the dropouts who eventually could become juvenile delinquents," Mrs. Rule said. "Dys-

Motorcycle Law Cuts Complaints

Belleville Limits

Tougher than State

BELLEVILLE ^{City Council} Described last summer as an "incessant" number of incidents, complaints of noisy and smoky motorcycles have virtually ceased in Belleville.

The number of riders and trips made normally drops off, in this wintry weather, but Police Sgt. Clayton E. (Mick-ey) McLaughlin said there have been "no problems" since a state statute governing motorcycle conduct was enacted into a city ordinance last June.

"The ordinance has been effective," he said, "once it was published, the complaints dropped right off."

The city law was given sharper teeth than the state statute.

Motorcyclists, for example, were forbidden to ride on residential streets unless they were taking "the shortest and most direct route to the operator's residence from the nearest major thoroughfare."

This is admittedly a difficult provision to enforce, McLaughlin said, adding that no riders have been stopped for its violation.

Officers also have not and probably will not enforce a provision which orders cyclists to travel no faster than 15 miles an hour on residential streets (which are posted at 25 mph), McLaughlin indicated.

"How would you like to follow a motorcycle going 15 miles an hour?"

Police Chief Irwin W. Stech said last summer that the conservative cyclist will remain free from harassment under the ordinance, used toward prevention of unruly behavior on motorcycles.

State-wide controls forbid the use of muffler cutouts, carrying more passengers than the number for which the machine is equipped and holding packages that would prevent the cyclist from keeping both hands on the handlebars.

Despite a Wayne County Circuit judge's ruling that the state law requiring a motorcyclist — driver and passenger — to wear a helmet is unconstitutional, that provision is still being enforced in Belleville, McLaughlin said.

Judge Charles Kaufman's ruling does not nullify the law, enacted last March. Only the Michigan Supreme Court could do that.

Fatigue!

Fashion Hour Foundations of Chicago has developed a new pantie girdle designed especially for women being troubled by muscular fatigue and nagging backaches.

Fashion Hour's new BACK-SAVER pantie features a unique 6" wide Halenca back elastic that embraces the lower back with gentle firmness.

According to the Chicago manufacturer, millions of women are being robbed of good looks and vitality, due to the lack of support in the lower back.

Another unique feature of Fashion Hour's new BACK-SAVER pantie is a narrow insert of mesh elastic placed about three inches below the back waist to give the garment extra length in the sitting position, and allowing added freedom of movement.

BELLEVILLE — Fire Chief William R. Warner, a 20-year veteran of the department, resigned last night, claiming he had been slighted.

The City Council accepted his resignation with regrets and appointed Warner's assistant, Robert Mason, acting chief.

Warner, who waited 2½ hours to address the council and then left before other business was completed, said he quit because he was not notified Friday night of a major accident downtown which kept the department's two units occupied through the night.

A propane gas trailer overturned on Main St. and a gas leak or explosion was feared. Firemen stood by the tank until after dawn Saturday morning, when a crane was called to right the rig.

Although most of the firemen and police officers turned out, Warner said, "No one bothered to notify me." He said that regardless of whether the whistle was sounded or not, someone should have called the fire chief when he did not appear.

Warner lives within walking distance from the fire station and the scene of the accident, he added.

Belleville Council Reaches Pact On Parking Costs

BELLEVILLE — The City Council spent almost 2½ hours trying to collect a 12-year-old bill last night and finally worked out a compromise of sorts.

At issue was parking — meters and lots — in the downtown area.

In 1955, the city spent about $6,800 out of the general fund to purchase some 70 parking meters for the downtown business area.

It also floated a $60,000 bond issue to finance construction of two parking lots, also to service downtown shoppers.

Seven years later the city worked out an unwritten agreement with a group of merchants, called the Belleville Parking Authority, whereby they would reimburse the city for its monthly meter revenues in return for removal of the meters.

From that time through July of this year, the merchants paid $125 a month to the city, and their customers were spared the bother of feeding meters.

A group of merchants at last night's meeting told council members that the terms of their agreement with the then city administration said that once the bond issue was paid off, they no longer would have to make monthly payments to the city, and would be allowed free rent of the lots.

The bonds were paid off last July and city officials last night told the merchants it was their understanding payments are still necessary.

City Clerk Irwin W. Stech said the merchants must cover the cost of the meters plus the city's yearly costs of maintaining the lots.

This bill amounts to some $16,000, according to Stech.

Members of City Council told the merchants they had no recollection of any terms of the earlier agreement providing an end to payments after the parking lot bond issue was paid up.

After hassling almost 2½ hours to come up with a solution, the City Council agreed to a resolution that the merchants (about 10-15 of them, whose businesses could profit from the lot) would pay $700 through the end of this fiscal year, June 30, 1968.

At the end of that time, it was decided, the administration will have looked into means of acquiring more property to build more lots.

The new construction could be financed through a special assessment, which hopefully would spread the cost "more equitably" among the city's businessmen, merchants claimed.

Eastern Cagers Eye First Match With Major Rival

Eastern Michigan, hoping to improve its athletic image with a small college ranks, will find out tomorrow night what the NCAA's major competition is like.

The Hurons will visit Loyola of Chicago, the 1963 national champion and the nation's 19th ranked quintet in today's first poll of the season, tomorrow night.

But while they're ranked only 19th—15th in one pre-season poll—the Ramblers are looking forward to their best season since their national championship year.

Coach George Ireland, who has a 244-152 in 17 years with Loyola, has back the seven top scorers from last year's team that posted a 14-7 record along with six hopefuls from a freshman team that had a 14-2 mark a year ago.

The Ramblers are probably the smallest major college team in the country, but make up for their lack of height with speed, ball handling and a strong pressing defense. Loyola just ran by Augustana, 125-79, in their opener last Friday.

"They storm the boards and jump well," said Huron Coach Jim Dutcher after studying his scouting report of the Ramblers' first victory. The Huron coach added that Loyola, because of its depth, was able to two-platoon most of the game.

Heading the Rambler returnees is 6-5 center Jim Tillman, an All-American last year when he topped his teammates in scoring with a 24.7-point average and ranked 10th in the nation. His performance broke the Ramblers' single season record—averagewise — holds a 3-0 edge in the alltime series between the two schools. However, the victories came in the early 1930s before Loyola went bigtime.

Dutcher is expected to open with at least four of the players he started in last Saturday's 93-63 victory over Michigan Tech. That would have 6-7 Earle Higgins at one forward spot, 6-5 Tuggle Bowens at center and

The department said it received a State Police message from Lansing on the escape, along with the description of a stolen 1963-model car they were believed driving.

Deputies Robert Booth and Charles Tucker saw the car about 9:02 p.m. on Sumpter Rd. and chased it before stopping the vehicle at the Willis Rd. intersection.

The officers said both men jumped out, but Fremarck was captured before he got far. Weishuhn managed to elude the deputies in the darkness, "running right out of his shoes," it was reported.

State Police and Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies assisted in the search for Weishuhn. Deputy Thomas Kelly, with his police dog, searched the fields and wooded area but the dog lost the scent in the wet underbrush.
